Welcome to HR Tech Europe 2014!

Welcome!

2014 is the 4th Year for HR Tech Europe, and once again we are delighted to welcome so many friends to what is now firmly established as the leading HR event in Europe. In 2013, the network experienced a 300% growth via the introduction of 2 new successful events in Q1 and Q2. HR Tech Europe in Q4 saw attendance increase from over 800 in 2012 to +1400 executives in 2013; this year we expect some +2000 plus attendees.

9 Events Under One Roof in 2 Days! As in past years we will support and energise the networking discussion with topic-specific co-located events designed to offer a varied timetable, an unparalleled choice of speakers, a broad range of content, and formats from main stage keynotes through to interactive debates and closed roundtable discussion groups. In 2014 the Main Stage will once again look to host some of the most exciting and powerful keynotes in the world; Gary Hamel, Ray Wang, David McCandless, Yves Morieux, Mark Turrell.

Enterprise Leadership Teams! That there are too many good speakers speaking at the same time is one of the most often heard complaints at HR Tech Europe. This is a great complaint to have and why we strongly encourage leadership teams to attend as a group so they can benefit from meeting all the vendors and attending the most important sessions.

The Backbone of HR Tech Europe is Networking & Community!

We are working very hard to put on the best conferencing and hospitality in the world. The quality of the attendees, as well as the networking experience in both the expo and networking lounge at the event, are what give us our competitive advantage. These are the areas that we look to develop and grow each year. This year to enhance your experience we are adding an Innovations Lounge where you can meet the young, agile start-ups that will Disrupt HR.

HR Tech Europe 2014 promises much more in entertainment and hospitality. However, more than anything else we want our members, delegates and sponsors, to enjoy the very best experience. You will have access to the best speakers, content, vendors, industry peers and research enabling you and your team to go back to the office and take intelligent action! 2013 saw combined delegations from as many as 50 countries, with an influence over some 20 million employees, so collectively our community has the influence to make a real difference in helping to shape the future of work.

What does 2014 look like? What's New? You will find out over the next few pages, and we will be sure to keep you posted as those plans evolve and new ideas are introduced between now and October!

What's new at HR Tech Europe 2014?

Responding to delegate interests and requests we have expanded the scope and range of the 2014 agenda; our break-out tracks this year offer as many as 9 options from which you can choose. This year we have also developed and evolved our exhibition and networking areas to meet market demand. This has enabled us not only to integrate more solution providers, but also a sponsored café and bar, and importantly an Innovations Lounge where start-up companies can showcase newly developed applications, as well as their dynamic talent and expertise.

New and Evolved Events

Future of Work

The workplace we know today is continuously changing, along with roles, functions and reporting models; with this change, we see a constantly evolving workforce and technologies that are faster and agile. Gamification, social networks and an abundance of data are all competing for attention in the work environment. Listen to the experts on what the future holds and how we can prepare for tomorrow today.

HR Technology

There is an incredible opportunity for HR leaders to move beyond systems of record to ones that have strategic impact across the enterprise. This track will highlight Cloud transitions, Predictive Analytics coupled with Lean Six Sigma, and an array of HR Solution experiences delivered by Senior Enterprise Practitioners, as well as insight and perspective from thought leaders and analysts.

Social Enterprise

Online social networks are today very much part of the daily routine and so deeply embedded into many people's lifestyle that some feel a sense of loss when they are unavailable. Greater workforce collaboration is the key to the future; how you get there, manage the transition and select from the myriad of available applications are just a few of the issues to be discussed in this session.

Cloud Technology

The world as we know it is inundated with Cloud technology. Should a company "rip and replace" its traditional on-premises system with a unified cloud solution for HR and talent management? Can you enjoy the benefits of cloud talent-management technology while keeping core HR intact? This short stream will challenge the way businesses are willing to operate and change the game significantly.

Product Demo

Product demonstrations are an excellent and unique opportunity to get practical information on the latest applications, and technology developments, and to put your questions and challenges direct to those developing the products. Expect to hear some of the latest developments from leading and innovative suppliers.

HR Shared Services & Outsourcing

The multi-polar world brings together competition from both established players and aggressive up-and-coming disrupters into a global arena. Companies feel challenged to be more strategic and leverage their internal processes and talent more efficiently. Engage and see how some of the most agile and successful businesses develop and retain customers and talent while leveraging their Shared Service practice.

disruptHR is a new brand and service offering co-located with HR Tech Europe 2014. disruptHR is the evolution of 3 years of our very successful start-up competition iHR & iTalent. This year we have developed something new; an Innovations Zone where the start-up community and globally acknowledged venture capitalists, consultants, advisors, and thought leaders share their insights on the future of HR; join them as they step into the Zone for their exciting 15 minute show & tell sessions throughout the 2 days. The disruptHR Zone will be the happening place where you will get a real sense of what's really disrupting HR.

Future of Workforce Learning

In the fast-paced, always ONLINE world of work it is inevitable that learning and development needs to keep up if it's to stay in the game. We take a look at some of the technologies out there, and examine from a perspective of practical experience how technology is bringing about a revolution in the world of workplace learning.

HR Labs

Following the success and positive feedback from the 2013 Master Classes, we have introduced for 2014 a new and unique format; the Lab. Our Labs will be led and presented by some of the most well known thought leaders and experts in the global HR Tech marketplace.

Talent Management

How can technology systems and applications help? What is the link between a successful organization and its people, its purpose and its predictive analytics? These are a few of the questions this session will address with a mix of thought leadership and critical analysis from practitioners and experts.

Social Enterprise

Online social networks are today very much part of the daily routine, and so deeply embedded into many people's lifestyle, that some feel a sense of loss when they are unavailable. In the modern workplace the effective use of "social" is a powerful tool, and when correctly used has a positive impact on culture, recruitment, engagement levels, learning, teamwork, and can bring benefits to all stakeholders in the business. In addition, the internal socialisation of data and information creates massive opportunities in terms of performance, how talent is acquired, retained and managed not to mention the sharp analysis it can provide for the health of the business. Greater workforce collaboration is the key to the future, how you get there, manage the transition and select from the myriad of available applications are just a few of the issues to be discussed in this session.

Talent Management

Talent, talent, talent - it's all about talent; with the market moving into post recessionary mode, it's talent that will help businesses secure their lead. How can technology systems and applications help? What is the link between a successful organization and its people, its purpose and its predictive analytics? These are a few of the questions this session will address with a mix of thought leadership, and critical analysis from practitioners and experts. Future of Work

The workplace we know today is continuously changing, along with roles, functions and reporting models; with this change, we see a constantly evolving workforce and technologies that are faster, agile and well integrated into daily routines. Today, staff bring their own devices to the office; mobile hand-held technology is so much the norm that we barely give it a second thought... gamification, social networks and an abundance of data and information are all competing for attention in the work environment. We will hear about the consumerisation of IT and its applications and even wearable technologies - Google Glass and the smart watches are here to stay, bringing connectivity to a whole new level. Listen to the experts on what the future holds and how we can prepare for tomorrow today.

Social Enterprise

Online social networks are today very much part of the daily routine, and so deeply embedded into many people's lifestyle, that some feel a sense of loss when they are unavailable. In the modern workplace the effective use of "social" is a powerful tool, and when correctly used has a positive impact on culture, recruitment, engagement levels, learning, teamwork, and can bring benefits to all stakeholders in the business. In addition, the internal socialisation of data and information creates massive opportunities in terms of performance, how talent is acquired, retained and managed not to mention the sharp analysis it can provide for the health of the business. Greater workforce collaboration is the key to the future, how you get there, manage the transition and select from the myriad of available applications are just a few of the issues to be discussed in this session.
